Facing up to life after 50

SOUTH Melbourne-based Forever Young Club, an online social community for over 50s, has former Miss World Belinda Green as its ambassador. "When my children left home I just wasn't ready to face the world alone. I've always told my single friends to get out and embrace life because, through meeting people, you can only meet more people," Ms Green said. Forever Young Club aims to provide a safe, friendly and comfortable online community for Australians over 50. For more information or to register free go to www.forever-young-club.com.au or www.fyc.com.au. Premium membership rates start at $25 a month.

Facing up to life after 50

WHEN former Miss World Belinda Green turned 50, it was a shock. But five years on, she is revelling in life over 50. The South Melbourne-based Forever Young Club, an online social community for over 50s, has Belinda as its ambassador. "When my children left home I wasn't ready to face the world alone. I've always told my single friends to embrace life because through meeting people you can only meet more people," she said. Forever Young Club began this year with the aim of providing a safe, friendly online community for Australians over 50.
